Dear Parents and Carers,

Whilst this week has been slightly shorter due to our INSET day tomorrow, there has still been an awful lot of exciting things going on. Rehearsals for our end of year summer production of Aladdin are now underway with the children beginning the process of learning all the amazing songs that they will be performing. As always, they do it with such enthusiasm and excitement and I have no doubt you will be blown away by the end product.

On Tuesday, we were treated to another fantastic 'Tell Me Tuesday' this time from Mr Alexander (Berkeley's Dad) who talked to the children about being an architect. Not only did he talk about what an architect did but also how the process has changed since he started. Mr Alexander brought in his original drawing table and the children were able to see some of his old hand-drawn plans and were shown how these plans were created and the tools that were used. He then talked to the children about how architectural designs are now mostly produced using computer software and demonstrated the process, with the children creating the design for a dream house and being able to request different elements to create the finished plan from glass balconies to round windows. The children really enjoyed the whole thing but were particularly taken with the interactive element and seeing architectural designs being created in real time.

This week, those children who have been having peripatetic music lessons had the opportunity to demonstrate their musical talents in front of both parents and carers and their classmates. The courage needed to get up and play a musical instrument in front of others is huge and yet they all took it in their stride and showed both poise and enthusiasm.

Transition has also been the focus of this week with many of our Year 6s attending taster days at their new secondary schools. As always, they approached it with courage and maturity and came back feeling confident about starting their new schools in September. We also welcomed our new Year R cohort into school this morning for their first transition event. The children and their parents and carers had a lovely time experiencing life in Willow class and undertaking some really fun and creative activities.

Next week, we are very excited to be welcoming the SCARF team back into school to provide some wonderful PSHE workshops for all of the children with each workshop being targeted to a specific year group.

Finally, please don't forget that it is Marvellous Monday for all classes this Monday so please do come in at the end of the day so that your children can show you all the amazing work they have been doing.

I really hope you all have a wonderful long weekend and the children come back rested and raring to go. Don't forget that the Sparsholt Fete is on Saturday, so hopefully I will see some of you there!

Kind regards,

Mrs Hanratty

After 50 years of supporting local families, Littleton Preschool will be closing its doors this summer.

Like many Early Years settings, the current climate has proved extremely challenging to operate within. Despite this, the staff, many of whom have been at the preschool for years, have continued to care for and nurture the children as they have always done.

We would like to show appreciation of their hard work and dedication through the form of a gift for each staff member. You can give towards a gift here and/or, send a message to treasurer.littletonpreschool@gmail.com, all of which will be collated into a card and presented to the staff.

If you would like to gift financially or via a message, please do so by the 5th of July.
